Gladys is 93 years old and lives with her husband in an assisted living home. She worried her penmanship would be hard to read so we have typed her letter below.

Dear John:

Your dad was the first person I met way back in 1963, when I flew up to Lewiston to accept to accept the position of Bursar at Lewis-Clark Normal School (now LCSC).

Sully was returning home from a business trip and was seated next to me on the plane from Boise. He was tired and as soon as the plane reached the necessary altitude and the lights were lowered he fell asleep....on my shoulder....and never woke up until the announcement that we were about to land in Lewiston!

Was he embarrassed? Maybe a little, but he thought it was a great way to be introduced which he did. He welcomed me to Lewiston extoling the city, the college the people in true Chamber of Commerce fashion and offered me his help in getting settled.

Through the years I was often the recipient of newspaper clippings from him and he was an easy touch for a donation to our college projects.

A true gentleman! I'm glad I had him for a friend, although our contacts became fewer and father between since our mutual retirements. I have only good memories. I'm glad I knew him!

My condolences to the family and to the firm.

Sincerely,

Gladys F. Huffman
