When should I review my insurance?

Insurance is a deeply personal business in order to protect your American dream! After all, we insure your loved ones and the things you value most. You share with us your personal information and trust us to protect you from sudden and accidental financial loss.

WHEN LIFE CHANGES – we need to talk!

We want to do the best job possible for you by maintaining an active relationship with open two-way communication. So, besides the normal day to day policy changes, billing issues and claims, there are key life events that signal a review of your insurance is needed.

- Whenever you see unexplained changes in your premium rates
- Buying or selling a car or home
- Paying off loans on your cars or home - including refinance
- Change in marital status
- Addition of a new baby
- Addition of a new licensed driver
- Changing jobs or retirement
- Change or loss of your employer health insurance
- Your son or daughter attending college or moving out of the house
- Buying or selling a business or starting an in-home business
